Panel Points

From the “But I don’t want to be a hero” panel:

Fonda Lee – One group’s hero is another group’s villain.

Nancy Kress – The heart of any story with a reluctant hero is the choice scene. The writer has to give it scope and verbiage. Both choices have to make sense.

Ellen Ire – My heroes suffer and they would hate me if they ever met me.

The Preliminary Business Meeting on Thursday received committee reports, financial statements from Worldcons and NASFiCs, considered resolutions, and established debate time limits for the debate of changes to the WSFS constitution that will begin at the Friday meeting. The full agenda for the meeting is on the DisCon III website at https://discon3.org/whats-on/hugo-awards-wsfwfs-business-meeting/

All of the Hugo Award eligibility extensions and a motion to slightly rearrange the order of two Hugo Award categories in the constitution passed.

A new proposal regarding how Worldcons handle information about site selection voters was replaced with an alternative version. This alternate will be voted upon during the main business meeting.

A proposal to create a new Best Audiobook Hugo Award category survived an attempt to postpone indefinitely (kill at this introductory stage) and will be considered at the Main Business Meeting.

The first Main Business Meeting will start promptly at 10 a.m. in the Palladian Ballroom. Please arrive early to sign in and take seats. Assuming the Friday meeting does not complete the entire agenda, the Saturday meeting will take up the remaining items after it deals with Site Selection business.

Everyone is welcome to attend.

Nommo Awards

DisCon III hosted the 2021 Nommo Awards for Speculative Fiction by Africans. This 5th Awards ceremony was the first held outside of Africa.

Oghenechovwe Donald Ekpeki scored his second Nommos win, this time in the novella category with “Ife-Ifoku: The Tale of Imadeyunuagbon,” first published in the anthology he co-edited with Zelda Knight, Dominion.

The award for Best Short Story was a tie between Tlotlo Tsamaase for ‘Behind our Irises’ and Innocent Chizaram Ilo for ‘Rat and Finch are Friends’.

Moongirls won for Best Graphic Novel. This action-packed tale of patriarchy and resistance was created by Nana Ako sốa Hanson and illustrated by AnimaxFYB Studios.

The event was hosted by DisCon’s Special Guest, Sheree Renée Thomas. She announced this year’s Ilube Nommo Award for best novel, which went to The Death of Vivek Oji by Akwaeke Emezi.

The Nommos are nominated and voted on by the over 200 writers editors and artists who are members of the African Speculative Fiction Society. The Awards are sponsored by Tom Ilube CBE. Participation in DisCon III was supported by the British Science Fiction Association and the science Fiction Writers of America.

Big Savings Petite Place
An unsigned note said: I had a late lunch at Le Petite Monde Bistro & Café (2653 Connecticut Ave.) The handcrafted pizza with the house-made sauce was excellent. Restaurant manager told me to spread the word. She’s giving a 10% discount to conference attendees. You might need to show your badge. They gave the con 10% off coupons which are available at the Information Desk.

Restaurant Reviews
NaanWise (2635 Connecticut Ave NW) We found that NaanWise watered down their sauces and mango lassi. They have interesting dishes. We tried the chicken chittanad, and it was delicious. We ordered it at medium spicy and that provided some heat, but not overwhelming spice that wipes out the rest of the flavor. A dish that I would be willing to order again. Lamb saag was tasty, but not anything to write home about. They had more bread products to choose from than Rajaij had. A big downgrade is the house music level. If you want to have a quiet conversation or have hearing issues, this is not your place. - Carole Parker. Cathy reported that they have a pakora sampler with extremely generous portions

Lebanese Taverna (2641 Connecticut Avenue) is a local chain of Middle Eastern restaurants. Cathy wrote that service was fast and the staff was friendly and did not try to rush anyone through their meal. Sam says that he went this summer and the food was plentiful and delicious. https://www.lebanesetaverna.com/lebanese-taverna

Tono Sushi is now under new management and offer a variety of Asian cuisines. Several people at the onsite all-staff meeting went there and were very much not impressed by the quality of the sushi. Also, the restaurant has a split storefront so it is not particularly accessible. https://tokudc.wixsite.com/tonosushi
